

REBEKA RUMMEL

PROFILE

I am a passionate freelance film director who has lots of experience in casting (films, TV series and commercials). Since finishing film school, I've been making my own short films and working with different professional actors.

As a director, I find casting one of the most intuitive and exciting parts of the film process. I love discovering hidden talents and their potential that opens us with some careful directing techniques.

Understanding the inner world of the character is the key to an unforgettable performance.
